

Michigan Archaeology 2014

This photo mosaic documents the wreck Pewabic on the bottom of Lake Huron in the Thunder Bay National Marine Sanctuary. Shipwrecks and other archaeological sites teach us about the past. Preserving these fragile sites should be an important goal for us all.

Beneath the Inland Seas

"The steamer was gaily decorated with bunnies and pennants, and was indeed a thing of beauty to behold and admire. When she backed out from the dock the band was playing and hundreds of cheerful faces were smiling a bon voyage to all on board."

Survivor W. H. H. Russell's account of Pewabic's departure from Houghton the day before it sank in Lake Huron on August 9, 1865. Reported in the Alpena Weekly Argus, March 9, 1892.